

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A console lid mounted screen is provided having a console lid positioned over a console for pivotal movement relative to the console and a display screen mounted within a frame attached within an interior compartment defined in the console lid. The frame is pivotally connected to the console lid so that the frame and the screen can move relative to the console lid.